

ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

This Acceptable Use Policy describes certain actions relating to the content and operation of a website through the use of the Service or such other use of the Service which Provider considers to be inappropriate and thus prohibited. Provider reserves the right in its sole discretion to remove any content for any reason, including but not limited to User's violation of any laws or the terms and conditions of this Acceptable Use Policy. The examples identified in this list are provided as examples only for User's guidance. If User is unsure whether any contemplated use or action is permitted, please contact Provider. Provider's right to remove inappropriate content under this Policy shall place an obligation on Provider to monitor or exert editorial control over any website operated by User or monitoring by Provider of User's other uses of the Service. Actions which Provider considers inappropriate and grounds for removal of offending material, termination of access to the website, or other interruption of the Service include, but are not limited to, the following:

User may not use the Service in a manner, as determined by Provider in its sole discretion, to be of excessive bandwidth utilization, and/or that might be interfering with other users from being able to use and/or enjoy the Service.

User may not use the Service in a manner that takes part of any peer-to-peer file sharing.

User may not use the Service or operate any website through the use of the Service to sell any goods or services that are unlawful in the location at which the content is posted or received or the goods or services delivered.

User may not use the Service or operate any website through the use of the Service to post any content that is obscene, lewd, lascivious, pornographic, contains nudity or sexual acts, is excessively violent, harassing, or otherwise objectionable.

User may not use the Service or operate any website through the use of the Service to post any content that advocates, promotes, or otherwise encourages violence against any government, organization, group, or individual or which provides instruction, information, or assistance in causing or carrying out such violence.

User may not use the Service or operate any website through the use of the Service to post any content that holds Provider (including affiliates), employees, or shareholders up to public scorn or ridicule or would in any way damage or impair Provider's reputation or goodwill.

User may not use the Service or operate any website through the use of the Service to post any content that violates any copyright, patent, trademark, trade secret, or other intellectual property rights of others.

User may not Fail to obtain all required permissions when using the Service or operating any website through the use of the Service to receive, upload, download, display, distribute, or execute programs or perform other works protected by intellectual property laws including copyright and patent laws.

User may not delete or alter author attributes, copyright notices, or other copyright management information, unless expressly permitted in writing by the author or owner.

User may not use the Service in a tortious manner, including the posting of libelous, defamatory, scandalous, threatening, or harassing information, or private information without the permission of the person(s) involved, or posting content that is likely to cause emotional distress.

User may not introducing viruses, worms, Trojan horses, or other harmful code on the Internet. Upon detection User's service may be suspended until infection is removed by User.

User may not resell the Service and/or otherwise extend the Service, for a fee or not, beyond User's household. For the purpose of this Agreement, a rental unit is considered a separate Household.

Provider may revise in its sole discretion this Acceptable Use Policy, without prior notice. Any such change shall be posted by Provider on its Website at <http://www.airocomm.com>. User shall be responsible for periodically reviewing the online Acceptable Use Policy to apprise itself of any changes thereto. User agrees to be bound by all such changes.
